In addition, exclusion criteria defined as part of the Sub-Fund's investment policy are taken into account.

The Sub-Fund is actively managed and not benchmarked against an index. The portfolio is composed by the fund manager exclusively in accordance with the criteria defined in the investment policy, reviewed regularly and adjusted if necessary. The Sub-Fund is classified as an Article 8 product within the meaning of the Disclosure Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 (SFDR).

EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Performance is calculated based on the net asset value (NAV). The subscription fee, as well as other fees, are not taken into account and therefore have a negative effect on the performance of the investment. Example calculation (subscription fee included): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5%, €50 will be deducted from their investment as a one off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may be applied.

Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund.

The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation to track the index or achieve the same performance for the fund manager.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

While yields on US bonds fell slightly again in January after a difficult final quarter of 2024, yields in the eurozone were slightly higher. At the start of the year, the wave of new issues on the primary market in particular proved to be a burden on euro bonds. Macro data was again extremely volatile – initially firmer in the eurozone but then trending weaker. At the end of the month, the focus was mainly on the meetings of the US Federal Reserve (Fed) and the European Central Bank (ECB). There were no surprises from either side in terms of their interest-rate decisions, although there was a slight change in rhetoric. The Fed took a break (as expected) and left its key interest rate band at 4.25%-4.50%, with Fed Chair Jerome Powell raising the 'bar' for future interest-rate cuts. In the eurozone, the ECB lowered its deposit rate by 25 basis points to 2.75% (as had already been priced in on the money market) and signalled further rate cuts in view of heightened growth risks. In the aftermath of the two meetings, euro bonds in particular recovered noticeably, while US bonds showed a mixed picture in view of the impending introduction of far-reaching tariffs. Real yields on inflation-linked securities continued to trend downwards after their correction in December, resulting in initial price gains for the associated bonds. Despite the uncertainties, risk premiums (for corporate bonds) initially remained unaffected and were trading slightly lower at the end of the month. After initially adopting a wait-and-see approach with a slight reduction in interest-rate sensitivity, we took advantage of the rise in yields during the month to increase the overall duration of the portfolio again – with a slight overweighting of activity in the eurozone. This was achieved, among other things, by actively managing the derivatives position and further increasing holdings of inflation-linked bonds, particularly from Spain. Reallocations and participation in new issues also slightly increased the allocation of corporate bonds.

Flossbach von Storch - Bond Opportunities - R

OPPORTUNITIES

- + Participate in global bond market growth.
- + Income can be generated from regular interest payments.
- + Active interest rate, currency and risk management (e.g. from the use of derivatives).

RISKS

- Country, credit and issuer liquidity risk. Also potential exchange rate risks. If securities are illiquid (i.e. thinly traded), there is a risk that it may either not be possible to sell the assets at all or only by accepting a significant discount on the sale price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.
- Investing in bonds may entail price risks, especially in case of rising interest rates on the capital markets.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.

The Risk and Return profil of this sub-fund is included on page 3 of this factsheet.

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 3 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you.
